ITALY.

WAR ON TURKEY.

THE ARABIC.

AMERICA EXCITED.

RUSSIAN RETREAT.

Italy has declared war on Turkey. The news is reported to have been received with emotion in Berlin.

A big naval battle has taken place in the Gulf of Riga. A Petrograd message states that the German losses were very heavy.

A British submarine torpedoed a German cruiser, and in the sea of Marmora a British seaplane is reported to have bombed and sunk a Turkish transport, filled with troops.

The German Emperor and Chancellor have exchanged congratulatory messages respecting the capture of Novo Georgievsk from the Russians, which was the occasion for unprecedented scenes of enthusiasm in Berlin.

The sinking of the liner Arabic has caused great excitement in the United States. The Ambassador in Berlin has been instructed to ask for an explanation.

The cold-blooded murder by the Germans of fourteen of the helpless crew of the British submarine E13, which went aground in Danish territory, has stirred Denmark to the greatest depths.

DARDANELLES.

PANIC IN CONSTANTINOPLE.

SUBMARINE SPECTRE.

PARIS, Aug. 21. The Daily Agence correspondent of the "Times" says that there has been a very serious panic in Constantinople since a British submarine destroyed a portion of the Gallipoli bridge. The spectre of the submarine haunts the population, especially the suspicious and nervous, who call them the "inventions of the devil." Cargo steamers have abandoned service between the islands and the Bosphorus.

Most of the Turks avoid Gallipoli bridge, using roundabout routes between Gallipoli and Samsun. Whenever a Turkish submarine is sighted, the British make progress at Anafarta.

The "Central News" correspondent at the Dardanelles, writing on August 1, gives a story of a New Zealanders' pluck, which, he says, is without precedent. During the advance he found himself isolated on a high promontory and wounded. The Turks were advancing in full force. The wounded man gave up, and commenced to signal, giving valuable information as to the enemy's strength. He was twice shot, and his message interrupted. Another shot disabled his arm. After an interval he raised himself, and waved the completion of the message, and fell dead. There were hundreds of instances of wonderful courage, said an officer, but that only the most intrepid failed to identify the hero. The troops at Anafarta have great fun with a goat. They imitate the croak of a shell, and then watch the goat rush into a dugout.

"OUR FALLEN COMRADES."

CAIRO, Aug. 21. The Alexandria camp celebrated the anniversary of the formation of the First Australian Brigade. The toast of "Our Fallen Comrades" was honoured, special reference being made to General Bridges, Colonel MacLaurin, Colonel Braund, Colonel Omslow-Thompson, and Major Irvine.

TURKISH TRANSPORT SUNK.

PARIS, Aug. 22. The Athens correspondent of the "Times" reports that a British seaplane bombed and sank a Turkish transport filled with troops in the Sea of Marmora.

GERMAN SUBMARINE CHASED.

LONDON, Aug. 22. Military reports state that a German submarine was pursued by three destroyers and two other Allied ships, and took refuge in Suvla Bay. It will probably be unable to escape.

MERCHANT SHIPPING.

LONDON, Aug. 23. The steamer "Pajeros," which left Wellington (N.Z.), on July 6, has arrived at Plymouth.

FALL OF NOVO GEORGIEVSK.

WILD SCENES IN BERLIN.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 20. An official message from Berlin states that Novo Georgievsk, the enemy's last bulwark in Poland, has been captured after stubborn resistance. The whole of the garrison and an enormous stock of war material were also captured.

The Kaiser has gone there to pay the Fatherland's thanks to General von Dessoir and the troops.

The fall of Novo Georgievsk has occasioned scenes of unprecedented enthusiasm throughout Germany.

A German communique says:—The Russians have withdrawn to a line east of Mariampol, Lutzki, and Studienka, where they are offering a fresh resistance. General von Gallwitz, west of Tychocin, captured 2000 prisoners and 12 machine guns. Over 700 guns were captured at Novo Georgievsk. General von Mackensen repulsed the enemy behind the Kotorka and Pulva district.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 21. An Austrian communique says:—The Austro-German advance upon Brest-Litovsk caused considerable portions of several Russian armies to crowd the provinces of the north-eastern withdrawal of the troops and the supply columns, whose line of retreat is restricted to a few crossings, offer a strong resistance west of the fortress on both sides of the river. Nevertheless, the north wing of our siege troops captured several advanced positions east of the fortress, and the enemy's retreat was hastened.

General von Mackensen is advancing towards the Upper Pulva.

A German communique states: Fighting occurred eastward of Kovno. We took 450 prisoners and captured five guns.

The enemy evacuated the Jesso region, and are retreating eastward. We stormed positions near Jesso-Jolys. Six hundred Russian prisoners were taken prisoner in the fighting westward of Tychocin (north-eastward of Lomza).

General von Gallwitz occupied Bielsk (southward of Brestok), and southward the Russians across the river at Bielsk. Prince Leopold on Friday night broke the enemy's renewed resistance. The enemy's day is further retreating, and we took 1000 prisoners.

General von Mackensen's left wing advanced to the confluence of the Bug and the Pulva. The enemy continued to retreat. We made further progress before Brest-Litovsk and eastward of Vidovka.

The "Lokal Anzeiger" praises the bravery of the defenders of Novo Georgievsk, and adds: "The Russian army is set back, and there will soon be a holiday in the east."

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 22. The "Berliner Tagblatt" correspondent states that the Austro-German forces are within ten kilometres of the outer forts of Brest-Litovsk, and the Russians are experiencing difficulties in retreating. The Bug, especially as they have been thrown back to immense swamps near Rokkilo.

The "North German Gazette" states that the Emperor has telegraphed Dr. Bethmann-Hollweg: "Thanks to God's assistance and the tried leadership of von Dessoir and his heroic troops, the excellent Austro-German troops, the strongest and most modern Russian fortress Novo Georgievsk, is in our hands. It is one of the finest feats of arms."

Bethmann-Hollweg replied: "Full of gratitude to God, the entire people rejoice in the army's deeds."

Thousands sang triumphal songs and the hymn, "Now Thank We All Our God" before Bethmann-Hollweg's palace.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 21. Russian fire at Vilna brought down a Zeppelin. An officer, an engineer, and eight soldiers were taken prisoner.

A Petrograd communique says: After the German occupation of Kovno the garrison joined the field troops. Our troops are still on the left bank of the Niemen, south of Kovno. The Germans strongly attacked along the entire front near Ossowice, on the Upper Narew and the Bug. We held the enemy on several sectors. The enemy occupied the right bank of the Bug near Vidovka, and continued his attacks in the direction of Pielichka.

The Germans, after occupying the left bank of the Wkra at Novo Georgievsk, concentrated all their efforts between Wkra and the Vistula, and destroyed the fortifications. This section was subjected to an uninterrupted bombardment by a hurricane of projectiles. The troops surrounded Vynnytskiy fort and attacked the fortifications, despite enormous losses.

We were obliged to withdraw on the night of the 19th to old forts fronting the central defences. The Germans destroyed two of these forts and occupied the ruins by a series of sanguinary assaults. They then bombarded the central defences. We blew up the Narva bridge and abandoned the front in the northern section.

A cautious communique states: One of our motor boats attacked a large sailing vessel going in the direction of the Euphrates. One hundred Cossacks routed a cordon of Turkish cavalry and charged a body of infantry, slaying fifty.

ROME, Aug. 21. Italian military experts say that the fall of Kovno is another proof of the worthlessness of any except mountain fortifications. They predict that Russia will not hold any other fortresses, but do not believe that the Germans intend establishing a fortified line on the eastern front to enable them to give attention to the western front. # WESTERN FRONT.

INTENSE CANNONADING.

ACTIVITY ON BOTH SIDES.

PARIS, Aug. 21. A communique states:—There was an intense cannonade at night in the Artois, Champagne, and Vosges regions. Mine fighting was continued at Courte Chaussee, near St. Hubert, where we occupied and reconquered ground which was torn up by a mine explosion.

A British officer relates that a British aeroplane pursued a Taube, igniting it. The German observer fell out, but the pilot kept his head, and flew up and down towards the German lines. The rudder was consumed, but the plane went ahead, the British troops loudly cheering. When 40 feet from the ground the pilot jumped out, and was killed.

In the Chamber of Deputies, M. Millerand (Minister for War) said that all the Government undertook to do in regard to the supply of munitions had been carried out. There was sufficient ammunition and 75-millimetre guns to meet all requirements.

The Government has agreed to hold a secret meeting of the Chamber of Deputies to discuss all defence questions. Any further there will be taken at a public sitting.

LONDON, Aug. 20. A German communique says: We ejected the enemy from portions of our trenches captured between Angres and Boucheux. We lost a small portion of our advanced position near Schratzmannelle.

A communique states: Mine fighting occurred at Vienne le Chateau. Fighting at close quarters with pistols and grenades took place at Saint Hubert and Rokkilo. The German losses were very heavy at Lange and Schratzmannelle, where a large number of enemy bodies were found in the trenches which we had captured.

"THE STRIEST GUARANTEE." The "Observer" says that the worst way to help Russia will be to rush into extensive frontal assaults on the western front. The latter forces are "growing stronger daily, and the Germans hoped that the Allies there would fling away their prospects by an endless series of futile attacks."

General Joffre, it adds, is building up his strength for decisive emergencies, and this offers the surest guarantee to Russia. Joffre will give the signal at the right hour for moving his fullest strength with the surest purpose.

PARIS, Aug. 22. Prince Rupprecht, of Bavaria, sacrificed 2000 men to recapture the trenches near the Abnau-Angres road. A four hours' bombardment with asphyxiating shells preceded the attack.

M. Millerand, speaking in the Chamber of Deputies, said that since October 1914 he had been forced to change two-thirds of the high personnel in the Department of the Ministry of War to secure efficiency. He had carried out the change quietly but rigorously.

The following communique has been issued:—

There is great artillery activity on both sides in the region of Houette and the Neuville sector.

The enemy fired 40 shells on Rheims, wounding one person. The Germans bombarded Vaquois. We directed an effective fire on the enemy's trenches.

Our trench engines in Alsace wrecked the German positions in the region of Armentziller, and blew up several munition depots.

PARIS, Aug. 22. A communique states: On the plateau north-west of Aesdre-Meot we took by a sharp attack an important Austrian redoubt. Our artillery ignited and destroyed the enemy defences barring the road from the Dolomites to Arabbia. The enemy's artillery destroyed the village of Pledelvic-Au-Mont, greatly damaged the railway station. We captured the front from Pluzze to Corcoz. A great length of the enemy's trench fell into our hands in the Monte Negro region. A squadron of our aeroplanes flew over the enemy aerodrome at Isowitz, east of Gorizia, and bombarded it for thirty minutes. On their return they completed an enemy aeroplane to descend.

Enemy aeroplanes dropped fourteen bombs on Udine (north-westward of Gorizia), killing a woman and a child and three Carabinieri.

A communique states: We expelled the defenders from the Pozz-Ain fort, in the Tonale zone, and occupied Monte Paterno redoubt, Upper Brenz. We captured a line of trenches near Monte Croce, taking prisoners.

Our completely repulsed counter attacks on our positions in the Tolmino sector. We made progress in the Carso district, taking 53 prisoners.

An Austrian communique reads: We repulsed six attacks on Tolmino bridgehead, which is still firmly held.

UNDER WATER.

EXCITING FIGHT.

ROME, Aug. 21. A blue-jacket's story of the sinking of the Austrian submarine U12 by an Italian torpedo boat, which was cruising in the Adriatic, is to the effect that they saw the Austrian approaching. They pretended not to see her, and manoeuvred, bringing the Austrian near a waiting Italian submarine.

The two submarines almost met bow to bow and the Austrian began to evade the Italian. The Austrian fired a torpedo, but missed. The Italian fired a torpedo, and both submarines dived. Both manoeuvred under water for an hour and a half, the Austrian vainly firing two torpedoes. Finally the Italian suddenly reversed, and plunged a torpedo into his adversary's vitals.

THE DECISIVE MOMENT.

PRINCE LOUIS' ORDERS.

LONDON, Aug. 20. The Official Press Bureau has issued a letter from Prince Louis of Battenberg to Mr. Churchill expressing regret that the unauthorised publication of a private note, particulars of which were published a fortnight ago, had been made the basis of strictures on Mr. Churchill. Prince Louis of Battenberg states there was perfect harmony and mutual trust during the critical time. The circumstances were as follows:—Prince Louis of Battenberg considered the news from abroad on July 20 very unpleasant. Mr. Churchill telephoned from Croydon, expressing the same view, and asking Prince Louis to take any steps appearing desirable. Mr. Churchill added that, as Prince Louis was in charge of the Admiralty, he should act without waiting to consult him. Prince Louis of Battenberg, in view of the foreign advice, ordered the Commander-in-Chief of the Home Fleet not to leave Portland, instead of beginning to determine next morning, as was previously arranged.

Prince Louis of Battenberg adds Mr. Churchill, approved of his action, and they decided that further orders should be issued daily. They were in perfect accord during the whole time.

ROLL OF HONOUR.

LONDON, Aug. 20. Second-Lieutenant E. E. Voyne, of the Worcester Regiment, has been killed in action. He was a native of Christchurch.

COTTON CONTRABAND.

LONDON, Aug. 21. It is officially announced that the Government has declared cotton absolute contraband. While the circumstances might have justified such action earlier, the Government is glad to think that the local conditions of American interests are likely to be affected more favourably by such step than would have been the case a year ago.

Moreover, the Government contemplates the initiation of measures to relieve as far as possible, any abnormal depression which might temporarily disturb market conditions.

PARIS, Aug. 22. The Government has notified that cotton is contraband.

LABOUR MEMBER'S VIEWS.

LONDON, Aug. 20. Mr. Thomas, M.P. for Derby, in an interview, said that neither the railwaymen nor any other Labour men would submit to conscription. If any attempt were made to introduce conscription the Government, instead of having to face an undivided military situation, would be faced with an industrial problem. He added: "The war can only be won by unanimity in all sections of the community."

ITALY'S CAMPAIGN.

WAR ON TURKEY.

EFFECT ON THE DARDANELLES.

ROME, Aug. 20. Turkey declares that she is willing to allow Italian citizens to leave the country, but insists on their paying enormous taxes, and giving up all their gold, which the Italians refuse to do. The Cabinet is considering the situation.

It is officially announced that Italy has declared war on Turkey.

A communique has been issued as follows: Provoked by the Ottoman Government's evasions, particularly in regard to the free departure of Italians from Asia Minor, the Government has declared war.

The Government has issued the reasons for the declaration of war on Turkey. It is pointed out that the Porte, immediately after signing the Treaty of Lausanne, violated it unilaterally, and did not take any steps to release prisoners of war.

On the 5th instant the Grand Vizier signed a note accepting Italy's demands, some hours before the ultimatum expired. Nevertheless, on the 9th the authorities revoked the consent to the departure of Italians from Asia Minor.

The "Secolo" does not consider that the "Turan" Italian will involve Italy in the Dardanelles, because experts estimate the opinion that a new army at Gallipoli is a superfluous. The only danger from the rear, which Italy must be to crush Turkey, and hasten the intervention of the Balkan States.

THE NEWS IN BERLIN.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 22. Italy's declaration of war against Turkey was received with deep emotion in Berlin. It is feared that it will seal the fate of the Dardanelles.

ENTHUSIASTIC SOLDIERS.

ROME, Aug. 21. General Cadorna reports a further advance to the front from the eastern border of the Trentino.

The Italians are progressing northward of Borgo (in the Southern Tyrol). Another advance has been made towards Rovereto (12 miles southward of Trento), from the south, and from two points on the western frontier.

These converging movements foreshadow the gradual and complete occupation of the Trentino.

A communique states: On the plateau north-west of Aesdre-Meot we took by a sharp attack an important Austrian redoubt. Our artillery ignited and destroyed the enemy defences barring the road from the Dolomites to Arabbia. The enemy's artillery destroyed the village of Pledelvic-Au-Mont, greatly damaged the railway station. We captured the front from Pluzze to Corcoz. A great length of the enemy's trench fell into our hands in the Monte Negro region. A squadron of our aeroplanes flew over the enemy aerodrome at Isowitz, east of Gorizia, and bombarded it for thirty minutes. On their return they completed an enemy aeroplane to descend.

Enemy aeroplanes dropped fourteen bombs on Udine (north-westward of Gorizia), killing a woman and a child and three Carabinieri.

A communique states: We expelled the defenders from the Pozz-Ain fort, in the Tonale zone, and occupied Monte Paterno redoubt, Upper Brenz. We captured a line of trenches near Monte Croce, taking prisoners.

Our completely repulsed counter attacks on our positions in the Tolmino sector. We made progress in the Carso district, taking 53 prisoners.

An Austrian communique reads: We repulsed six attacks on Tolmino bridgehead, which is still firmly held.

UNDER WATER.

EXCITING FIGHT.

ROME, Aug. 21. A blue-jacket's story of the sinking of the Austrian submarine U12 by an Italian torpedo boat, which was cruising in the Adriatic, is to the effect that they saw the Austrian approaching. They pretended not to see her, and manoeuvred, bringing the Austrian near a waiting Italian submarine.

The two submarines almost met bow to bow and the Austrian began to evade the Italian. The Austrian fired a torpedo, but missed. The Italian fired a torpedo, and both submarines dived. Both manoeuvred under water for an hour and a half, the Austrian vainly firing two torpedoes. Finally the Italian suddenly reversed, and plunged a torpedo into his adversary's vitals.
